Cherry-Ann Joseph-Hislop, Ed.D., Principal
Zachary Mack, Assistant Principal

March 15, 2022

- Mr. Mack read the minutes from the last meeting, Ms. Godly approved the minutes, seconded by Dr. Hislop.

- Reviewed the Stake-holders and committee report

- Special thanks to one of our parents Xiomara Melchor

Stated she was very grateful to be a parent at PS 59

She's a great help, always present

She enjoys and appreciates the open lines of communication between the staff and parents

- Interested and open to feedback from the parents

- ❖ Wants more time with the parents

- ❖ Conduct a sidewalk parent meeting as an open forum because not all parents are vaccinated

- ❖ Find ways to encourage parents to get vaccinated

- ❖ The upcoming Friday will have a Pop-UP vaccination site - sign up with the city

- We will continue all of our hard work to prepare the students for the upcoming State Exams

- ❖ Considering hosting an in person learning program for Spring Break as the Math test is a day after we return from the break.

- ❖ Using the data from previous mock exams to drive instruction

❖ Our Saturday program speaks to the mantra of excellence as our students are showing up at increasing numbers

- Parents are pleased with the overall performance of our school -
- Surveys for the teachers - Classroom Behavior

Classroom behaviors are a reflection of classroom management

Clarify the difference between all and a lot to the teachers for the next time the surveys are administered.

One question that stood out the most as a school is “How many students pay attention when they are supposed to?”- The results were lower than expected

- How can we reward or give our students incentives?
- ★ We should collectively come up with ideas as rewards for our students - It was mentioned that stickers still go a long way
- ★ Dr. Hislop mentioned ordering medals of excellence
- Attendance is still a struggle - Encourage students to come to school every day on time.

Attendance may still be an issue as parents are still afraid and have concerns surrounding the pandemic.

- CEP - For Next year - Next Meeting April 19, 2022
- Also discuss the Math and ELA progress
